Fall 2024 RTO Renewal Deadline is August 1
Fall 2024 MyTrack Offers Deadline is August 26

Please build in time for your business office to generate the renewal, offer, or pay documents and obtain all required approvals, with time to meet the monthly deadlines. These deadlines will help us send documents to the Payroll office by their payroll document deadline.

Do not submit anything more than 6 months in advance. Any renewal effective more than 6 months out is an over-commitment for the University. If renewal is for visa purposes, please indicate on the RTO and they will be processed with Provost approval.

OFLA to PFML Update
Anne Willis
Associate Director of Benefits
Earlier this year, the Oregon Legislature amended the Oregon Family Leave Act (OFLA) which provides job protection for certain qualifying leave reasons.

There have been significant updates to the Oregon Family Leave Act (OFLA) and its interactions with the Oregon Paid Family and Medical Leave (PFML) program. These legislative updates have implications for how leave requests are managed at the UO.

Effective July 1, 2024, the following leave reasons will no longer be covered under OFLA and must be transitioned to PFML.

- Family Leave to care for an infant or newly adopted child or newly placed foster child
- Family Leave to care for a family member with a serious health condition
- Medical Leave for an employee’s own serious health condition
The UO Benefits Office sent notices last week to employees affected by these changes. If an employee is on an approved OFLA leave and they do not have an active PFML claim, they will need to follow the steps below to maintain protected leave.

1. Contact The Standard at 1-800-242-1888 to initiate their PFML claim
   a. Reference Group Policy Number: 762384-Z.
2. Employees will receive a packet by mail to complete and return to The Standard within 30 days. Employees may submit their current medical certification to The Standard.
3. The Leaves Coordinators in our office will request additional information via email. Employees will need to supply this information in a timely manner so the claim can be processed efficiently.
Return to Work Reminder

Employees are required to submit an Employee Status Report (ESR) within 5 days of their return-to-work date for leaves related to their own serious health condition or a pregnancy related disability.

The employee's physician confirms if they can perform the essential functions of their job when the leave period ends. Employees cannot return to work without confirmation from the Leaves Coordinator the ESR has been received. Supervisors must also confirm early return to work status with our office.

If you have specific questions regarding an employee's leave, please contact hrleaves@uoregon.edu
Human Resources by the Numbers and the Narrative

- Setting the Frame – Sue Russell, Director HR Community of Practice
- Data Considerations at Work - Megan Flanigan, HR DEI Analyst and Jenna Schuttpelz, Director Talent Acquisition, Classification, and Compensation
Common Definitions and Framing

- Data – a collection of values, gathered by question or measurement
  - Quantitative Data - countable, or measurable, how much, how many, how often, numbers
  - Qualitative Data – description of characteristics, sensory, observations
- Metrics are made up of data, pieces of data measured against a goal

Mixed method approach combines and integrates both types of data.
What are the Human Resources data considerations?

• Data Privacy – particular responsibility for confidentiality and privacy of data both numeric and qualitative. Basic security and access, methods of communication, determine when sharing information is appropriate.

• Data Precision – data entry, accuracy, consistency, proper coding and clean-up is an important responsibility. Accurate input provides better overall reporting results and subsequent understanding and decision making. Builds potential for equity.

• Data Signals and Patterns - something looks off, too many questions, the numbers or narratives don't fit with the typical expectation, disproportionate impact, correlation does not imply causation.

• Data Communication – Sharing what we know, important information for employees about changes. Leveraging understanding – the nuance of timelines, how much and how many, the why behind the action.
Where is the HR community impact?

• Privacy: Consider business purpose for data and information access, confidentiality.
• Precision: Remember the value of accurate data. Influence on the larger picture and opportunities for equity.
• Signals: Stay curious, observe, ask questions, get to know your data. Spot error messages, confusion, gaps, work to understand patterns and spot changes.
• Communication: Share accurate information. Support understanding – the nuance, the what, how, and why. Identify and communicate barriers and highlight opportunities to continuously improve. Consider what you want to say.

Data Considerations at Work

How the TACC team embraced data, tracking, and metrics, including what we learned along the way
Data Privacy

• Data privacy does not mean data that is hidden

• If you’re unsure if you can/should access data, just ask!

• Consider appropriate use – not all uses are equal

• For qualitative data, consider how survey respondents will engage with your questions and possible bias implications
Data Privacy in Action: Applicant Demographic Report

- Aggregate not individual
- No results if <10
- Aware of system reporting to ensure individual data is not accessible
- Report can be run on job requisitions in MyTrack as needed
Data Precision

- Set yourself up for success from the very start with your tracking systems
- Consider how you monitor and ensure accuracy
- Consider your data inputs and any known limitations or issues
- Be prepared to be precise for several years to see true longitudinal trends
Data Precision in Action: TACC Team Metrics

• Data pulled from MyTrack via reporting module into MS Excel – avoid hand entry or hand counts

• MyTrack structured to capture needed data elements

• Elements outside of MyTrack are tracked in similar ways for consistency
Data Signals

• What is your data telling you?
• What questions do you have as someone with close knowledge to the data?
• How can you help your readers understand what you are presenting (and what you’re not)
Data Signals in Action: Temporary Hire Request Metrics

- Noticeable spike in June 2022
- To avoid common questions, noted the outlier in the visual
- Readers don’t need to know or recall history to see reason for the spike
Data Signals in Action: Job Approval Metrics

• Spike in April 2024 job postings noticed by leadership
• Questions about hiring activity vs headcount
• Digging in, related to process change for academic pools
Data Communication

• Consider what story you’re trying to tell your readers and why it’s important to them

• Pay close attention to labels, titles, and averages vs. edge cases

• Results of data shared without knowledge or context can range from simply not useful up to actively misleading or confusing

• Don’t let concerns stop you from sharing your stories!
